Abandoned Boat Investigated on Lake Fenwick

Kent, Wash. - September 29, 2015- An 18-20 foot fiberglass boat has been towed from the east side of Lake Fenwick to the boat launch area on the west side where a tow truck will remove it.

The boat was investigated today at noon after a passerby noticed it overturned and called 911. Divers and water rescue firefighters from several south King County departments, including the Kent Fire Department RFA, responded to the scene and determined that the boat was unoccupied and appeared abandoned. Divers also searched the bottom of the small lake under the boat.

At this point it is not clear why the boat was overturned and abandoned. There was no boat registration on the hull.

Lake Fenwick is 17 acres in surface area and is located on the west hill of Kent.
