Truck Crashes into House

Kent, Wash. - October 28, 2016- Firefighters from the Kent RFA were dispatched to the 26800 block of 118 Ct. SE after receiving a report that a vehicle had struck a house at 11:15 am.

When the units arrived, they found a small pickup truck that had driven across the lawns of two properties before striking the garage of a third house and coming to a stop in the driveway of a fourth. The garage had sustained significant damage to one corner of it where a rollup door had been torn off and part of the foundation broken.

In addition to striking the house, the truck also hit a cable TV box, damaged two front yards, and sprayed gravel which dented two vehicles and garage doors.

The adult male driver of the truck was examined by firefighters and sent to a local hospital for an unspecified medical reason. According to police, alcohol was not a factor in the crash. Two people who were in the house at the time of the incident were not injured.

It is unknown why the truck crashed.

A City of Kent building official has examined the house and is working with the home owners about access and safety.
