Four-Plex Fire

Kent, Wash – March 9, 2019 – A fire involving a four-plex is under investigation tonight in the 11100 block of SE 223 Street.

Firefighters were dispatched at 9:30 pm and found the single-story building with flames coming through the roof and several windows.

Because the roof had collapsed, firefighters fought the flames “defensively,” or from the outside of the structure.

All of the occupants were able to escape safely and there were no reported injuries. Red Cross is assisting the displaced residents. The Flood Guys are providing a free board up service to protect the property.

The fire is under investigation.
